What is BioRecy?

How does it work?

BioRecy is a company that deals with the recovery of recyclable materials (paper, plastic and glass). Through on-site delivery or home pickup, customers will have the opportunity to sort products provided by Biorecy by delivering their waste. The profits from their sale, to the recycling centers, will be used in the purchase, from farms, local businesses and supermarket chains, of goods to replenish the stores.

Why choose BioRecy?

BioRecy aims to distribute organic, plant and animal food products with short supply chain (km 0). Quality, fresh and seasonal local products that provide food security with reduced pollution and waste. In addition, it will be possible to take advantage of an area dedicated to the sale of freshly squeezed juices and coffee drinks distributed inside edible cups, prepared with organic foods.

What local environmental challenge does it want to address?

BioRecy through its work attempts to acquaint society with new ways to safeguard the environment through small gestures and appeals to those who will support the cause and contribute to move toward a more conscious protection of the planet.
